The merger creates a lidar powerhouse with over 850 customers spanning the automotive, industrial, robotics, and smart infrastructure industries supported by a robust product portfolio of innovative hardware and software solutions in addition to top-tier engineering and commercial teams. Following integration, the combined Ouster expects to retain approximately 350 employees with its headquarters in San Francisco and key offices across the Americas, Europe, and Asia-Pacific. The merger is expected to drive significant cost synergies and value creation for the combined company and its stakeholders.

Key Strengths of the Combined Company:

- Robust product portfolio to serve current and prospective customers, including Ouster OS and DF series sensors, Velodyne Lidar sensors, and Ouster Gemini and Bluecity software;
- Expanded partner ecosystem and distribution channels to accelerate market penetration;
- Innovative digital lidar roadmap and software strategy to drive product adoption and new high-margin revenue streams;
- Extensive intellectual property portfolio with 173 granted and 504 pending patents, backed by over 20 years of combined experience in lidar technology innovation;
- Strong financial position with a combined cash balance of over $315 million as of December 31, 2022; and
- On track to exceed previously projected annualized operating expenditure synergies of $75 million, compared to standalone cost structures as of September 30, 2022, within 9 months.

"We're thrilled to have completed the merger with Velodyne so quickly, further boosting our financial position and our ability to accelerate lidar adoption," said Angus Pacala, CEO of Ouster. "Together, we have an even stronger team backed by a healthy balance sheet, new channel partners, and a wide selection of positive-margin products to serve a diverse set of customers and win more deals than ever before. We expect our innovative digital lidar roadmap, amplified by exciting new software solutions, to further expand our serviceable market and catalyze growth across the business."

Ouster will provide a comprehensive update on its integration plans, including its product offering, technology roadmap, manufacturing and operations footprint, commercial strategy, and additional synergies across the business, on its fourth quarter 2022 earnings call.

Forward-Looking Statements

This press release contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. We intend such forward-looking statements to be covered by the safe harbor provisions for forward-looking statements contained in Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act") and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"). Such statements are based upon current plans, estimates and expectations of management that are subject to various risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from such statements. The inclusion of forward-looking statements should not be regarded as a representation that such plans, estimates and expectations will be achieved. Words such as "anticipate," "expect," "project," "intend," "believe," "may," "will," "should," "plan," "could," "may," "continue," "target," "contemplate," "estimate," "forecast," "guidance," "predict," "possible," "potential," "pursue," "likely," and similar expressions are intended to identify forward-looking statements, though not all forward-looking statements use these words or expressions. All statements, other than historical facts, including statements regarding Ouster's anticipated cash position and cost savings; anticipated customer base, expected number of employees, and anticipated strengths and benefits of the combined company, are forward-looking statements.

All forward-looking statements are subject to risks and uncertainties that may cause actual results to differ materially from those that we expected, including but not limited to risks related to Ouster's limited operating history and history of losses; the negotiating power and product standards of its customers; fluctuations in its operating results; supply chain constraints and challenges; cancellation or postponement of contracts or unsuccessful implementations; the ability of its digital lidar technology roadmap and new software solutions to catalyze growth; the adoption of its products and the growth of the lidar market generally; the merger may involve unexpected costs or liabilities; the effect of the merger on the ability of Ouster to retain and hire key personnel and maintain relationships with customers, suppliers and others with whom Ouster does business, or on Ouster's operating results and business generally; challenges with the integration of the combined company; the outcome of any legal proceedings related to the merger; Ouster's ability to grow its sales and marketing organization; substantial research and development costs needed to develop and commercialize new products; the competitive environment in which Ouster operates; selection of Ouster's products for inclusion in target markets; Ouster's future capital needs and ability to secure additional capital on favorable terms or at all; its ability to use tax attributes; Ouster's dependence on key third party suppliers, in particular Benchmark Electronics, Inc., and manufacturers; Ouster's ability to maintain inventory and the risk of inventory write-downs; inaccurate forecasts of market growth; Ouster's ability to manage growth; the creditworthiness of Ouster's customers; risks related to acquisitions; risks related to international operations; risks of product delivery problems or defects; costs associated with product warranties; Ouster's ability to maintain competitive average selling prices or high sales volumes or reduce product costs; conditions in its customers' industries; Ouster's ability to recruit and retain key personnel; Ouster's use of professional employer organizations; Ouster's ability to adequately protect and enforce its intellectual property rights; Ouster's ability to effectively respond to evolving regulations and standards; risks related to operating as a public company; risks related to the COVID-19 pandemic; risks related to certain of Ouster's warrants being accounted for as liabilities; and other important factors discussed in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2021, as updated by the Company's most recent Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q and as may be further updated from time to time in the Company's other filings with the SEC. Readers are urged to consider these factors carefully and in the totality of circumstances when evaluating these forward-looking statements, and not to place undue reliance on any of them. Any such forward-looking statements represent management's reasonable estimates and beliefs as of the date of this press release. While Ouster may elect to update such forward-looking statements at some point in the future, it disclaims any obligation to do so, other than as may be required by law, even if subsequent events cause its views to change.

² Billings represents the dollar value of products and services provided during the current period and invoiced to the customer. Velodyne management used this metric to track commercial growth, establish performance targets and make budgetary and operating decisions. Billings excludes the effect of the contra revenue recognized in connection with the Amazon warrants.
